

East Carolina University
Department of Psychology

Wuensch's R Lessons: The Basics

I am learning R by writing lessons on R.

Linked here are documents containing lessons designed to teach novice students how to use R. I grant permission to all to employ these lessons for noncommercial, educational purposes, as long as the documents are reproduced only in their entirety and include my copyright notice.

Dr. Karl L. Wuensch
Department of Psychology
East Carolina University

- An Introduction to R
- R Packages -- including "psych"
- Common Errors
- Independent Samples $t$ Test
- Related Samples $t$ Test
 - Permutation Test for Two Correlated Samples
- Correlation/Regression
- Independent Samples ANOVA, One-Way, and Trend Analysis
- Factorial ANOVA, Independent Samples, Balanced

- Omega -- McDonald's omega, alternative to Chronbach's alpha
- R-Links

Visit Karl's Index Page

[Contact Information for the Webmaster,
Dr. Karl L. Wuensch](#)

This page most recently revised on 15-March-2018